

WHY CHOOSE US?

The Private Postman was founded by former Royal Mail postman Mark Redmond in 2009.

We are a premier London-based leaflet distribution company specialising in personalised and targeted leaflet distribution.

The Private Postman has been at the forefront of the development of transparent and well tracked leaflet distribution services in London since the company's inception.

This is evidenced by our GPS tracking system as well as our live campaign tracking systems that all clients have access to.

Our distributors are well-trained reliable men and women who care about their work and who tend to stay with us for years.

We specialise in door to door leaflet distribution targeting privately owned households but we also have distribution options in place for local authority housing and deliveries to business addresses all over London.
